THE PSYCHOLOGY OF PREJUDICES

There is an old folk-saying about Purim that goes like this: "Heute is Purim—Morgen is aus" (To-day is Purim—to-morrow it is over.) This saying may express the actual celebration of the festival, but it does not adequately sum up the underlying idea which has made of Purim a Yom Tov in the Jewish calendar. Purim may come and go in a day but the idea for which it stands, like the poor, is always with us. It is this underlying idea which made our sages say "that when all the books of the Canon will have been lost and all the holidays and festivals shall be abolished (at the coming of the Messiah), Purim and Purim, alone will remain." This same idea is contained in the other Rabbinic saying about Purim, "that Purim is as great as the day on which the Torah was given on Sinai."

What is this underlying idea? It is the idea of prejudice which the Jewish people have encountered from the beginning of their history. The Book of Esther may, and according to Biblical scholars, is not a historic record. It is a historic romance. But its greatness consists rather in this: it is the tale which recounts the eternal tragedy of the Jewish people. It is another instance of the fact that fiction is oftentimes more true than history. The Jewish people have sensed this in the tale which the anonymous author of the Book of Esther recounts, and for this reason Purim has exercised such a unique hold on them. The giving of the Law at Sinai made of Israel a unique people. Purim and the tale it tells preserved Israel so that it could continue as a unique people. The experience of Israel with the nations and Hamans of the world from the Biblical days of Balak to the modern days of the Bellocs is summed up in the words of Haman to Ahasuerus: "There is a certain people scattered abroad and dispersed among the peoples in all the provinces of thy kingdom and their laws are diverse from those of every other people. . . . Therefore it profiteth not the King to suffer them." The Jews have tried to be like a part of the ocean of cultures and nations in the world yet distinct and separate. The nations of the world have always reacted as did Haman. Whilst their numbers were small and insignificant, they were tolerated, indulged and sometimes even treated kindly, but when they grew numerous and their influence spread, the Hamans of each country called for their passports. They were notified that they were undesirable foreigners and strangers. To get rid of them the nations used different methods of persecution. In this and this alone did their treatment of the Jew differ. History records three distinct methods which were used against the Jew: Absorption via conversion; when this failed, segregation via the Ghettoes was tried, and finally expulsion.

The prejudice against the Jew has not abated much in spite of the progress and enlightenment which the world has experienced. The walls of separation between Jew and Gentile which St. Paul already speaks of, that our fathers builded, are still with us and each generation seems not only to repair the gaps in these walls but builds new walls which we bequeath to our children. This in spite of the fact that it is universally admitted that prejudice is irrational. Prejudice blinds us to the truth and is the greatest obstacle to human progress, especially in the field of inter-race and international relations.

Prejudice means to pre-judge, to pass opinions about things and people without a knowledge of all the facts and before giving mature interpretation to the facts. The discouraging feature about the psychology of prejudging consists in the fact that it is a common trait of human nature from which none of us is free. Coupled with the universality of prejudice is the tenacity with which most people cherish their prejudices and their stubbornness and unwillingness to let go of them.

We hear much about the so-called unprejudiced mind, but in reality there is no such thing. The most we can hope for in this respect is an unprejudiced and objective attitude of mind and approach to things, problems and people. No one is free from some form of intellectual or emotional bias which is the result of many conditioning factors which go to make up our mind set and emotional responses. The philosopher, theologian, historian and even scientist, have their pet prejudices. Max Nordau aptly and correctly characterized history as his-story.

We are what heredity, environment and education make of us, and it is only by deliberate effort that we ever rid ourselves of the prejudices which are inculcated in us during our childhood when our natures are most emotional, and hence most impressionistic and plastic. The stupid tales of ignorant and superstitious maids and governesses, the acts of parents and teachers to whom we look up when we are young and which we unconsciously imitate, the perversions of theology, history and even sciences which are taught to us in schools when we are older, the provincial character of the Main Streets in which we grow up, the stage, movies and press which we see and read when we grow still older, all these mould and knead our prejudices. In times of crises, of disillusionment, disappointment and despair, such as the world is now passing through, our prejudices become accentuated. Is there any wonder, therefore, that the anti spirit is abroad in all lands. In America we are experiencing an aggravated form of this anti spirit. There are the movements of the anti-Jew, anti-Catholic, anti-Negro, anti-Capital, anti-Labour, anti-foreigner, anti-modernists and anti-fundamentalists, etc., etc. In fact the anti movements are so keen that one wonders whether it is too much to expect of human nature that it shall rid itself of its prejudices.

Is there a remedy? There is if human beings will determine to live rational common-sense, ethical lives instead of living close to the animal in them.

Prejudices can be overcome if we only determine to overcome them. Ignorance is, of course, the great source of prejudice. Ignorance generally leads to suspicion, suspicion to fear, fear to hatred. When hatred becomes militant, we experience the things which lead us to appreciate that prejudice is like a worm eating at the heart of an apple.

To overcome ignorance requires a sense of intellectual curiosity coupled with a will to want to find out all that we can know about a matter. Too many people are intellectually lazy and hence quite satisfied to formulate opinions that a knowledge of the facts would not justify. Too many people are perfectly willing to make snap judgments. That is why so many of us speak best when we are wholly undisturbed by the facts.

Education is the remedy to ignorance. Education would prevent us from making all-white or all-black judgments, that is judging the group by our opinion of the individual and vice versa. This is an all too human characteristic and produces much prejudice and injustice. It is an offence against the law or morality. "A man is a man for all that." His personality should be judged on its own merits quite apart from the group of which he happens to be a member, and so far as groups are concerned, they each have their good and their bad.

FIRST OF FIVE MILLIONS RAISED FOR JEWISH EDUCATIONAL CENTER

Yeshiva Fund Workers Hope to Obtain $1,000,000 More by April 26, When Work on Structure Begins

The first $1,000,000 of the $5,000,000 needed for the erection of a seminary and college to be known as the Yeshiva of America has been raised, Samuel Levy, chairman of the executive committee, announced. It is proposed to erect the institution on Amsterdam Avenue, between 186th and 188th Streets.

The $5,000,000 required is to be raised over a five-year period, and the first $1,000,000 was to have been secured from the Jews of greater New York by March 1. Mr. Levy stated. "The unprecedented response for the erection of this American center of higher Jewish learning has been so gratifying," he added, "that we have decided to launch immediately our campaign for the second $1,000,000. We expect to raise it by Sunday, April 26, when ground-breaking ceremonies will be held and construction started."

The Yeshiva of America will include a series of five buildings in the style of Palestine architecture of the era of King Solomon. These buildings comprise a seminary, college, library, senior high school and dormitory. The dormitory to cost $250,000, will be built by the women's committee of the building fund, under the chairmanship of Mrs. N. H. Ebin, formerly of Buffalo. The committee has already obtained $60,000. The dormitory will house 300 students.

"Every effort will be made to have the seminary, college and high school buildings completed as soon as possible," Mr. Levy said, "because of the acute situation with regard to Jewish centers of learning in Europe. Many of the most important institutions have been forced to close as a result of post-war conditions. In Russia world-famous Jewish schools have been closed as a result of the ruthless persecution by the Soviet government of all things Jewish. As a result many of the world's most noted Jewish scholars are now in dire circumstances, and it is our hope that we may bring these distinguished men to America, where as members of the faculty of the Yeshiva they can continue their research and studies and contribute to the cultural and academic life of the nation."

The intricate mechanism that regulates the social life of the national capital, with its inner wheels of tradition, rank, prestige and what not, was set vibrating throughout its whole structure by the arrival at Washington of the Grand Duchess Alexandra Feodorovna, whose husband, Grand Duke Cyril, aspires to the throne of a restored Russian empire. The visitor was received by a set of society leaders as though she already were a reigning empress, but so far as the Washington Government was concerned she might have been the humblest citizen of the smallest of foreign lands on a sightseeing trip under the cover of a properly vised passport.

The theory imputed to Chancellor Austen, Canon of York Cathedral, that the Jews beat the English to England, that "the Jews came to England, probably with the Phoenicians, during the time of King Solomon," if sustained would put an awful crimp in "Nordic" vanity, in this country as well as in the "Mother country." If this disposition on the part of clerical and lay highbrows to reason consecutively, a priori, logically and constructively is not checked, we presently shall have the world judging the Jew truthfully, even treating him decently, and that would be awful, brothers, perfectly awful.

Two years in existence, loans made, 470; average loan, $40. With average capital of $5,500, has loaned out $31,000.

ITS STORY

We loan money to small merchants, peddlers, and people out of work and until they get work we help them along. They make payments from $2 to $5 a week, according to the amount borrowed. We do not charge interest. The expenditure of an office and secretary is paid by members who pay from $6 to $15 per year each. Our membership is only about 150 at the present time. Owing to the big demands made in the past year by various organizations, we have kept from making an appeal to the city. We find, however, that free loan is the most constructive social work an organization can do, for it keeps people away from charity organizations and helps them to become self-sustaining. Sometimes a member applies for a loan. He feels that he borrows money from a sort of mutual help organization. The people who borrow money are treated with every courtesy and they are not made to feel that they are asking favours, for this organization is kept up by the people to help the people. We feel that Toronto Jewry unite to make this theatre night profitable, for we have to refuse weekly close to a hundred applications, as we have no further funds to lend.

Men who are on the verge of becoming charity cases receive loans and with the help of $100 or $150 many have started in business either pressing and cleaning, or as cobblers, and have paid up their loans and become members and are getting along well. In the course of the two years we have not lost one penny for every borrower must have two signatures as guarantors for his loan.

The first $3,300 of the capital was raised on a theatre night held at Loew's Uptown, under the auspices of I.O.B.B., under the chairmanship of Alderman Phillips. The balance of over $2,000 was subscribed by the directors themselves and a few friends who sent in their cheques. In order to do good work our capital should be not less than $10,000. Unless everyone supports the theatre night next Monday by buying tickets, our money may be lost instead of made.

QUEBEC CITY

Miss Mae Silverman, of Quebec City, entertained a few friends at the tea hour on Saturday, February 21.

Mrs. H. Silverman, of Quebec, who was the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. Joseph, 368 Oxford Avenue, N.D.G., has returned home, accompanied by her daughter, Sophie, who had been visiting in Montreal, for the last few months.

Every Friday

For the first time in the history of American Jewry, cantors representing Orthodox, Conservative and Reform Jewish congregations, met for the purpose of securing a uniform rendition of the service; to encourage and foster congregational singing and to recommend the establishment of a cantors' seminary under the direction of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. There were eighty singers present from Canada and the States. The conference closed with the singing of "Hatikvah" and "The Star-Spangled Banner." This is one time when the fact is really worthy of mention.

Some time ago we questioned the good business sense of the Israelite, Winnipeg's Yiddish paper, for running an English page when there was already an English-Jewish paper covering the field. The English-Jewish paper we had in mind was the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW. Rumour has it that the editor of the Jewish Post thought we meant his paper. Fact is we did not know there was the Post. Having seen a copy since, we are still in doubt about it.

The New York City Federation of Women's Clubs in sixty-sixth session assembled and with over 1,600 present, adopted a resolution that the Federation urge that only natural-born citizens of the United States be eligible to become a justice of the Supreme Court, a member of the Cabinet or Speaker of the House of Representatives. A Miss Lerner called the resolution "shockingly undemocratic" and led a tumultuous opposition which evidently was in the minority. Among those elected to office were people with such names as Spurborg, Hausrath and even Castello.

"Why, he wanted to be made a professor, but people had objected." Why had they objected? came the question from more than one throat. "Well, you see, it was this way: the man is a Jew, and the authorities are not going to appoint a Jew to an official position in a university without raising objections. That is to be taken as a matter of course." That this was in very truth to be taken as a matter of course was also the opinion of Herr Carovius, who, however, insisted that Benda didn't exactly look like a Jew; he looked more like a tolerably fat Dutchman. He was in truth not quite blonde, but he was not dark either, and his nose was as straight as a rule. "That is just the point: that's the Jewish trick," remarked the Judge, and took a mighty draught from his beer glass. "In olden times," he said, "the Jews all had the yellow spots, aquiline noses and hair like bushmen. But to-day no Christian can be certain who is Jew and who is Gentile." To this the whole table agreed. — From J. Wassermann's "The Goose Man."

There is the story of an Italian by the name of Almerindo Portfolio who, at the age of forty-seven years, has retired from the cloak and suit business and turned over to six co-workers an industry valued at seven millions of dollars. He was once an immigrant boy. His beneficiaries to-day, besides his brother, are men named Goldman, Scully, Schenck, Nathan and Pasternak.

Something new in the way of an American Jew protesting against the Ku Klux Klan, anti-Semitism, fanatical church people and Americans of more than 100 per cent. patriotic content, was presented in the picture of Rabbi Wolsey, before the schools committee of the Ohio legislature, when he opposed the bill to compel Bible-reading in the public schools. The gallery was filled with champions of the proposed bill in a state which has become a stronghold of the Klan. They had treated many speakers of the opposition with boorish demonstration of noise. Perhaps in their minds' eyes they saw that old picture of the Jew, ingratiating, afraid, standing with hat in hand, as they would like to have him when it came his turn. Instead Rabbi Louis Wolsey of Cleveland faced them with resolution and that immeasurable dignity which is his. He was no humble suppliant. What he offered was no plea from the cringing but a challenge from the brave. The general tone of his address is indicated by this: "We want liberty, but if you deny it to us, we will get along under despotism. I belong to a community that knows what despotism means. We endured it during the Middle Ages. Perhaps we are to have more despotism, but it will mean the destruction of American principles."

Men and women were silent before the Rabbi's eloquence. His argument, perhaps more than any other, has brought to the attention of sane Ohioans the seriousness of a bill which threatens a fundamental right of Americans, that of religious liberty. More than that, his speech must strengthen Jews wherever they are distressed by anti-Semitic activities. It must also be a rebuke to some who believe in placating the Gentiles and catering to them instead of facing them with heads held high.

Rivka says: "The sanctity of marriage doesn't seem to be strengthened any by those musical comedy weddings which start young people off in such a burst of splurge."

MARRIAGES

Cohen-Glostein

The marriage of Ethel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Glostein, of Ottawa, to Jack, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Cohen, was solemnized at the Men of England Synagogue, Spadina Avenue, on Sunday, March 1, Rabbi Dorsky and Rabbi Levy officiating. The bride wore white champagne trimmed with ermine. Her veil of tulle was arranged with a coronet of orange blossoms and studded with brilliants, and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Louis Cohen, brother of the groom, was best man. Miss Lila Price was flower girl, in a pink ruffled georgette dress, and carried a basket of sweet peas and carnations. Mrs. William Pinkus, of Detroit, sister of the groom, was matron of honour in burnt orange satin with gold lace overdress. The train-bearers were Hilda Glostein, sister of the bride, and Riva Price. They were dressed alike in pink crepe de chine dresses trimmed with roses. The bridesmaids, Misses Dora Glostein, of Ottawa, Rose Aikin, Rose and Gertrude Rapp, were gowned in coral georgette trimmed with flowers. The groom's mother wore black beaded georgette, and the bride's mother, black beaded satin. Covers were laid for one hundred guests. The out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. L. Glostein, of Ottawa, parents of the bride; Misses Dora and Hilda Glostein, Mr. and Mrs. William Pinkus and son, of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Aikens and daughter, of Windsor. The bride and groom were presented with a pair of engraved silver candlesticks from the Judaeo Benevolent Society. The presentation was made by Sol Cohen, noble master of the lodge of which the groom is a member. The Spanish tango and Russian dances were performed by professional dancers. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cohen left for New York and other points. They will live at 369 Markham Street.

BOOK AND SERVICE CLUB

The Book and Service Club met Sunday last to continue their visit through the Royal Ontario Museum, under the leadership of Miss D. Haines. Later at a tea room final arrangements were made for the bridge-gift booth at the Purim bazaar.

Y. NEWS

Buffalo is meeting the Y.M.H.A. here this Sunday night in the debate of the season, "Resolved, that the record of the League of Nations to date justifies its continued existence." Buffalo will be represented by Herman Tiebeld and Jack Weisfeld, the former being the New York State champion of last year in inter-city debating. The Y. will be represented by Louis J. Brody and Nathan M. Waldo for the affirmative. Debate at the Y.M.H.A., public invited. Prospective Y.M.H.A. baseball players meet Sunday, March 8, at 2.00 p.m., Y. Building.

The Y. will form an inter-club all-Jewish softball league. All Jewish organizations of senior calibre are eligible. This league will be recognized by the T. & D. and will play off for the city championship.

Last Saturday night at St. Christopher House the Y. ladies defeated the Toronto Ladies' Team, score 14-16. This ties these two teams for first place once again in the city L.O.B.A. fixtures. In the second game the Y.M.H.A. Midgets won over the strong West End Y.M.C.A. Midgets, score 16-20. There was a capacity crowd, many being turned away, due to the lack of room.

JEWISH BOYS' CLUB

An experiment will be tried next Sunday night in an impromptu oratorical contest. Each boy will draw a subject from a hat, will be allowed a few minutes for preparation, and will speak for not more than five minutes. The boys' parliament was reorganized Sunday, March 1st, and the following elected to the new cabinet: Premier, I. Chernoff; Minister of Property, I. Tennenbaum;

The Young People's Club, Men of England Synagogue, held their first annual dance at the Synagogue Chambers, Saturday evening, February 28. The Social Committee was in charge. About forty couples were present.

MAX MANSON HONOURED

At the Zionist Institute, Wednesday evening, February 25, a surprise dinner was given in honour of Max Manson. The hall of the Institute was decorated with the word "Surprise" hung in letters of blue and white in the centre. The dinner tables were arranged in U-shape, and decorated with flowers. Mr. and Mrs. M. Manson were seated at the head of the tables as honoured guests. A bouquet of American beauty roses was presented to Mrs. Manson. A Cash, toastmaster, enumerated good deeds done by the guest, oftentimes unknown to the community.

Cantor Saitz sang. Dr. J. Shayne spoke on Zionism and the influence exerted here by Mr. Manson in its behalf. He said that Mr. Manson was responsible for making many Zionists, including the speaker. D. Abramowitz gave a humorous address. Among other speakers were: L. Levinsky, D. Goldberg, H. M. Lehrer, A. Rhinewine, S. Harris, H. Greisman, W. Leibel, I. Cohen, J. Kronick, A. C. Solomon, C. I. Benjamin, S. Frankel, H. Dworkin, J. Rumm, S. Rogul, H. Lazaresco, S. Bennett, S. Himel.

Mr. Manson thanked his friends and said that he would take a trip with his wife to Palestine shortly and on his return give a report of all he had seen. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. M. Manson, H. Greisman, D. Goldberg, Dr. J. Shayne, A. Cash, D. Abramowitz, H.

INJUNCTION AGAINST IMITATOR OF SALADA LABEL

The Salada Tea Company has just been sustained in a judgment rendered February 16, 1925, by the Exchequer Court of Canada, in its suit against a firm which placed on the market a blend of tea with a label so closely copied from the distinctive and well known "Salada" label that almost any buyer could have been deceived.

In the article which appeared in the "Israelite" recently, the Rev. A. Schapiro, of Portsmouth, Ohio, was referred to as having officiated for thirteen years in the absence of a regular rabbi, while in fact, he was the regular rabbi for thirteen years, from 1888 to 1901, when he resigned and was succeeded by Rabbi Max Rasin.

Miss Pearl Niamark, who underwent an operation in the Grey Nuns' Hospital recently, is recovering rapidly at the home of her aunt, Mrs. S. Sandomirsky.

Miss Fanny Finkelstein was hostess at a theatre party in compliment to Miss Fanny Prosterman, bride-elect. Later luncheon was served and the guest of honour was presented with a hand painted china tea set. Others present were: Misses Fanny Prosterman, Florence Shragge, Anne Shragge, Charlotte Shein, Celia Kahn, Charlotte Pinsk, Dora Finkelstein, Eva Leibovitch and Leah Leibovitch.

In the Talmud Torah Hall the marriage ceremony of Miss Fanny Prosterman, Regina, and Louis Lazarus, Vancouver, was performed by Reverend M. Kalef, assisted by Rabbi Zucker, of Portland, Ore. An orchestra played and the bride entered on the arm of her father. She wore an ivory crepe gown with crystal bead trimming, and her veil of tulle, in cap shape, was caught up with orange blossoms. She carried cream Ophelia roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The bride was attended by Mrs. Samuel Cohen, gowned in black silk velvet with real lace trimming, with corsage of red American beauty roses; and by her sister, Mrs. L. J. Morris, gowned in wood brown georgette with small hat to match. She carried pink American beauty roses. The mother of the bride wore a black satin-faced canton dress with Chinese embroidery trimming and a black picture hat with ostrich trimming. The bridesmaids, Misses Charlotte Pinsk, Ethel Silverman, Fanny Prosterman and Charlotte Shein, wore gowns of pastel shades and carried bouquets of tea roses and carnations. The flower girls, Anita Prosterman and Sybil Morris, wore taffeta dresses in pastel colours and carried baskets of sweet peas and fern. B. Prosterman and L. J. Morris were groomsmen. The ushers were B. Redman, J. Pinsk, J. Finkelstein and M. Shein. A wedding supper was served to two hundred guests in the Talmud Torah dining room. L. J. Morris was toastmaster. An orchestra played for dancing. The out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Nosentoff, Mrs. D. Hornstein, N. Dechter, Moose Jaw; Mrs. P. Polsky and daughter Reta, and Chas. Polsky, Brandon, Man.; Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Morris, Estevan; and B. Prosterman, Edmonton. Mr. and Mrs. Lazarus left on a trip to the Pacific coast, where they will visit Edmonton, Vancouver and Seattle. The bride travelled in a tulle of navy point and brick-red blouse, over which she wore a green velour coat with grey fox trimming, and a black satin hat. On Saturday, February 21, Miss Fanny Prosterman was hostess at a trossau tea. She was assisted by Mrs. R. Finkelstein and Mrs. L. J. Morris. Those present were Misses Gertie and Ethel Silverman, Sara Kalef, Margery Edess, Charlotte Pinsk; Mrs. W. Chadwick, Fanny Finkelstein and Charlotte Shein.

EDITORIAL

The common human tendency of wanting to be like-minded, to think and act like all the others in the herd is another reason for our prejudices. We do not have the courage to be in the minority and refuse to follow a multitude to do evil. Much of the Chauvinism of our day which is nothing else than race prejudice is due to this tendency of like-mindedness. We are again all who are not like-minded. The Jews often regarded all those who were not of them with opprobrium and designated them as the "uncircumcised." The Greeks called all non-Greeks "barbarians," whilst Thackeray reprimanded the English for calling the French "monkeys." If we are to rid ourselves of this form of tribal prejudice we must cultivate a sense of mutual respect for differences in others. In racial and national relations we must get rid of the idea that homogeneity and uniformity are the only means at unity and brotherhood. It is a psychological fallacy to stress and strive towards racial, religious and national uniformity in the world. Nature's forward processes are from homogeneity to heterogeneity, from uniformity to variation, not the reverse. As civilization evolves there will be more individuation. Amity will be achieved through cultivating respect and tolerance for diversity.

One of the worst forms of prejudice to overcome is what the psycho-analyst calls "complexes." This form of prejudice is most persistent, because most deeply rooted in our natures. A "complex" is a set of ideas that arouse in our consciousness a set of strong emotions. The unhistorical tale of the crucifixion of Jesus by the Jews taught in many Sunday schools to Christian children, produces such a "complex" which it is difficult to root out in later life. When our ideas do not have an "emotional fringe" around them the presentation of new ideas lead us to change our old ideas. But when dealing with a "complex" the presentation of new ideas does not have the same effect. It is, therefore, most essential that we should be extremely careful what we teach children when they are most susceptible because of being emotional and impressionistic. The crucifixion myth has worked irreparable harm in this respect. The same is true when teaching the thing that goes by the name of patriotism but which, when misrepresented, becomes chauvinism.

Prejudice is the worst enemy mankind has to overcome. Truth is the liberating force in the world. It lies in our power to overcome our prejudices and to seek the truth. The truth alone can set us free.

EMPIRE

With a company of sixty people, including the eighteen Jazz-A-Ganza Girls, Jean Bedini's "Peek-a-Boo" comes to the Empire Theatre next week, built along the lines of a musical revue. The show is bright and snappy throughout, yet is the classiest of burlesque. Mr. Bedini personally produced the show, going to London to get his chorus girls. The company is headed by those two famous comedians, Harry and Willie Lander, who know how to produce laughs without becoming offensive. The show is clean and wholesome throughout, which should be the signal for the ladies to attend in large numbers. In the cast are Nellie Nelson, Ed. Quigley, Trixie Tatton, Peggy Mayo, Matt Kennedy, Vera Leon, Lynch and May and George and John Charland. A bright bit in the show is the singing and dancing of Nellie Nelson. Louise Fountain has arranged several art pictures, which are really worth seeing and in "explaining" the pictures Harry Lander injects a lot of wholesome comedy.

STANDARD

Max Gobel's success in his play, "The Great Moment," exceeded all expectations. The management spared neither expense nor energy to make the production a duplicate as that of New York.

The rainstorm effect in the first act brings much applause and wonderment from the spectators.

Mr. Gobel will give three more performances of his play this Friday and Saturday, March 6 and 7.

SHEA'S

The Royal Siamese entertainers are making their first Canadian tour and have been secured as the headline attraction at Shea's this week. They are twenty-two Siamese skilled in various native pursuits. The little company was accompanied by Frank Hicks, staff correspondent of the Bangkok Daily Mail, and the principal dancer, Princess Mon Luang Sud Chitra, who is really a princess of royal blood.

The twenty-two Siamese include the principal Takraw players, the royal court dancer and musicians. Their programme is one of native dancing and an exhibition of their national game.

Nola St. Claire, musical comedy star, will present "The Road to Starland," a fantasy. Jimmy Lucas is assisted by Miss Gerakine Herbert in "Vampires and Fool." Jack Haley and Helyn Eby Rock in "Chic Risibilities" have an offering that is one long laugh, and Jean Sothem, dainty and charming, has a new skit, by Paul Gerard Smith, in "Girls Will Be Boys." James Carlisle and Isabelle Lamal presents the comedy skit "The Interview," and an Aesop Fable completes the programme.

MILLION-DOLLAR CENTER FOR ORTHODOX JEWS

To accomplish for orthodox Jewry in religious, educational, social and charitable lines what the Cathedral of St. John the Divine stands for to the Christian faith in New York, the First Hungarian Congregation of Ohav Zedek is to begin at once building a synagogue on the upper West Side, which will form the nucleus of a Jewish educational and communal center, it was announced yesterday.

The site is in West Ninety-fifth Street, near Amsterdam Avenue, and the building will cost $1,000,000. Such a center for the Jewish faith has long been projected, it is said, but has been deferred in order that its start might coincide with the celebration of the thirty-fifth year of the leadership of the Congregation by Rabbi Philip Klein.

The congregation also has postponed building because of the shifting of center of Jewish population in New York. The site now picked is said to be definitely established as a region where there are many Jews. In making the announcement Moritz Neman, of 525 West End Avenue, president of the congregation, said:

"Our plans call, first, for the erection of the new synagogue in that section of the West Side to which many of our congregation have moved and where the center of Orthodox Jewry in New York, it is clearly shown, is henceforth to be."

"Second, the completion of an educational and community building in conjunction with the new synagogue that shall round out its activities and be a meeting place for every member of the family."

"Third, and what may be placed first, the immediate increase, by at least 1,000, of the membership of our congregation, to insure the successful carrying out of the plans we have formulated, and which are essential to the needs of the people of this city, whom we would serve."

"Carrying out those plans may be said to be in the nature of a pledge to Dr. Klein. Their fulfillment we owe to him in recognition of his thirty-five years of unselfish labor and sacrifice which have attained for this congregation the prestige it now enjoys throughout the United States and the world."

"We desire all of these things, not for ourselves alone, but more particularly for the children and young people who are to succeed us and to whom it is our sacred obligation to give the advantages of religious education and opportunities for relaxation that shall keep them true to our faith and traditions."

"We wish to keep the family together and make the congregation a gathering point for all, giving to each person, young and old, something to interest and instruct him, so that it will be to the congregation, rather than outside, that our young people will turn for guidance and for that spiritual, mental and physical stimulus that it is their nature to seek."
